The fund gained 0.4% in October, the GBP class ended at £11.45 on 30 October, -2.2% for the month, slightly underperforming European but leading global benchmarks. Global equity markets experienced a significant rotation in October, as concerns over the returns on substantial AI-related investment triggered a sell-off in technology stocks, while defensive sectors proved more resilient. Against this backdrop, our disciplined bottom-up investment approach provides a degree of protection against sharp market swings while retaining exposure to meaningful long-term upside, as we remain entirely focused on fundamentally sound businesses trading at attractive valuations.

Vår Energi, the Norwegian oil and gas producer, was the fund's strongest contributor, following a strong third-quarter trading update with EBIT nearly doubling to $2.21 billion, and the quarterly dividend increasing 14%, supported by significantly higher realized oil and gas prices. We expect higher production in the fourth quarter and the closing of the transformational BlueNord combination. CTS Eventim, Europe's leading ticketing and live entertainment group, recovered in investor sentiment following the surprise CFO departure as insider buying and the arrival of a US activist investor who argued that the company is significantly undervalued. They will host their first Capital Markets Day, in November, providing an additional catalyst. Fleury, the Brazilian diagnostic and healthcare provider, benefitted from strong results, as well a broader rally in domestic Brazilian equities following the first round of the presidential elections. We exited the position as the share price approached our estimate of fair value, fortunately ahead of the sharp post-election sell-off.

The largest detractor for the fund was FnGuide, the South Korean financial data and analytics provider, as the sharp correction in the South Korean equity market dampened investor sentiment and could potentially weigh on assets tracking its indices and related fee income. This despite third-quarter results where revenue increased 77% and operating profit 188% year-on-year. Hanyang ENG, the engineering specialist providing critical infrastructure for semiconductor facilities, was hit as the sharp sell-off of Korean semiconductor stocks spread to infrastructure suppliers. Another detractor was CTT, the Portuguese postal and logistics group, as investors grew increasingly concerned about the impact of the EU's removal of the customs duty exemption for low-value parcels on its e-commerce and cross-border delivery business. The regulatory changes are aimed at parcels originating from China and have raised concerns over declining volumes, increased operating complexity and pressure on profitability.

With investment, your capital is at risk and the value of an investment and the income from it can go up as well as down, and you may not get back the amount invested. The fund's main strategy-specific risks are equity markets, small and mid-cap volatility, geographic concentration in Europe, currency and liquidity. Past performance must not be considered an indicator or guarantee of future performance. The Sub-Fund is actively managed. The Sub-Fund has no benchmark index and is not managed in reference to a benchmark index.
